DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

Claims 1 – 36 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Bergh et al.

(U.S. Pat. No. 6,890,493 B1) (hereinafter “Bergh”).

Regarding claims 1 – 36, Bergh anticipates a microfluidic apparatus comprising a distribution manifold for distributing fluids in microfluidic systems (see, e.g., col. 7, lines 15 – 40, figure 7B; col. 10, lines 19 – 42, figures 16A – 16E). Bergh teaches the incorporation of a detection system (see col. 16, lines 26 – 60). Bergh does teach the material properties and fabrication of the disclosed apparatus (see, e.g., col. 23, line 18 – col. 49, line 20). The Courts have held that a statement of intended use in an apparatus claim fails to distinguish over a prior art apparatus. See In re Sinex, 309 F.2d 488, 492, 135 USPQ 302, 305 (CCPA 1962). The Courts have held that the manner of operating an apparatus does not differentiate an apparatus claim from the prior art, if the prior art apparatus teaches all of the structural limitations of the claim. See Ex Parte Masham, 2 USPQ2d 1647 (BPAI 1987). Furthermore, the Courts have held that apparatus claims must be structurally distinguishable from the prior art in terms of structure, not function. See In re Danley, 120 USPQ 528, 531 (CCPA 1959); and Hewlett-Packard Co. V. Bausch and Lomb, Inc., 15 USPQ2d 1525, 1528 (Fed. Cir. 1990) (see MPEP § 2114).

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to the pending claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection. Prosecution is reopened.
